Brett Nabors Joins Weaver as IT Advisory Services Senior Manager in Austin

AUSTIN, Texas (December 19, 2016) – Weaver, the largest independent accounting firm in the Southwest with nine offices across the United States, announces that Brett Nabors, CISA joined the firm’s Austin office as a senior manager in IT advisory services.

“We are pleased that Brett joined the firm and our IT advisory services team. He brings significant private sector IT consulting experience to our team that will complement the Austin market and our Central Texas region,” said Brian Thomas, CISA, CISSP, PCI-QSA and partner-in-charge of IT advisory services. “We believe our current and prospective clients in the Austin area will benefit from Brett’s strengths and experience.”

Born and raised in Austin, Nabors joins Weaver with more than 12 years of experience as an internal and external auditor and IT advisor. He has managed Sarbanes-Oxley, Service Organization Controls and IT security projects, and led compliance and regulatory audits. Nabors is skilled in system implementations, including PeopleSoft, data analytics, IT control evaluations and other aspects of managing and improving IT performance, effectiveness and security. He is passionate about helping clients improve controls and processes, identify and address risks and align IT processes to the overall organizational strategy.

Before joining Weaver, Nabors was a senior manager in the global audit division at SunPower Corporation, where he led the global audit IT relationships and executed operational assessments. Within three months of joining SunPower, he expanded his role to include ownership of the entire operational audit component of global audit. Previously, Nabors worked at PricewaterhouseCoopers, where he advanced to the role of risk assurance director. He led and delivered internal and external audit and advisory services to global companies in areas of ERP, integrated compliance, business process improvement, supply chain management, IT governance, IT management, enterprise applications management, internal controls assessments, and service organization/third-party reporting.

Nabors is a Certified Information Systems Auditor (CISA) and an active member of the ISACA (Information Systems Audit and Control Association) Austin chapter and Institute of Internal Auditors (IIA) in Austin. He earned a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in information and operations management from Texas A&M University, graduating magna cum laude in the Mays Business School honors program.
