

BUSINESS INTERRUPTION SERVICES

As an attorney representing business owners or insurance companies, you know that business interruption claims can be complex and challenging. These claims require a deep understanding of accounting principles, valuation methodologies, financial analysis and projections, as well as insurance claim documentation requirements. That is why partnering with forensic accounting and valuation specialists can be invaluable.

Our team of experienced forensic accountants and valuers can work with you to provide detailed financial analysis and reporting to support or analyze business interruption claims. We have a proven track record of success in helping businesses and insurance companies evaluate losses from unexpected events, such as natural disasters, unforeseen circumstances, and other covered events.

Our professionals have decades of experience navigating business disruptions and evaluating related claims. We have assisted, prepared and presented complex business interruption and related claims under the terms of applicable commercial insurance policies while streamlining the recovery process and ensuring that claims are comprehensive, logical, defensible, and well-documented. We also have extensive experience evaluating claim calculations prepared by other professionals.

Our professionals work closely with attorneys, businesses, and insurance companies to ensure that every aspect of a claim is supported by accurate and detailed financial analysis. We can also provide expert testimony and litigation support, as necessary.
